

Hepatitis Awareness Proclamation Toolkit

Proclamations from a governor, mayor, city council, or other levels of government are useful tools for raising awareness of an issue and for gaining public recognition. Proclamations can be requested by anyone, but requirements and timelines vary, and it's recommended to check the government website before initiating the process. The toolkit below provides best practices for requesting a proclamation to publicly recognize hepatitis awareness in your community.

Why Request a Proclamation

Millions of Americans are living with chronic hepatitis, but many may not know it. In the fight against hepatitis, raising awareness and encouraging testing, linkage to care, and treatment is critical. Proclamations are official documents that bring recognition, awareness, or appreciation to an issue by publicly commemorating a specific period of time (i.e., day, week, or month).

Proclamations are especially effective to memorialize key public health milestones:

- National Adult HBV Vaccine Awareness Day (April 30)
- Hepatitis Awareness Month (May)
- National Hispanic Hepatitis Awareness Day (May 15)
- National Hepatitis Testing Day (May 19)
- National African American Hepatitis C Action Day (July 25)
- World Hepatitis Day (July 28)

How to Request a Hepatitis Awareness Proclamation

1. Identify the body of government (Governor, City Council or Mayor, Legislature, etc.) you would like to issue a proclamation. Many government websites for governors and state legislatures have instructions for requesting proclamations. However, smaller bodies of government (mayoral offices, county executives, etc.) may require outreach via phone or email for additional details. Most government offices require at least thirty days to prepare a proclamation, so it is recommended that you begin the process early.
2. Request a proclamation. Follow the instructions available on the website for the proclamation – this will help expedite the process. If there are no clear instructions (i.e., online form) and you're reaching out via email, include information about why the proclamation is important and your personal experience with viral hepatitis.
3. Include the preferred text for the resolution via the appropriate request method (i.e., online form, email, etc.). Providing already drafted language will speed up the process and help ensure accuracy in proclamation language.
4. Follow up as appropriate on the proclamation request. If you have not received confirmation within a couple of weeks, follow up to ensure your request was received.
5. Email NVHR at info@nvhr.org to let us know about the proclamation or if you have any questions! Once the proclamation is issued, celebrate the news by sharing it on social media (#voices4hep), distributing it to local organizations and community leaders, displaying it at events, on websites, and in newsletters, and reaching out to your local media.

WHEREAS, greater than half of people living with viral hepatitis are unaware they are infected, thereby increasing their risk for severe health problems such as cirrhosis, liver cancer, liver transplant, and death; and

WHEREAS, with immunizations, access to clean syringes, and early detection, hepatitis B and C can be prevented, hepatitis B can be treated, and hepatitis C can be cured, saving lives; and

WHEREAS, the current epidemic of opioid and other substance use in the state is increasing transmission of these viruses that are spread through blood, primarily intravenous, inclusive of intranasal drug use; and

WHEREAS, the CDC recommends all individuals over the age of 18 and pregnant women be screened for hepatitis C virus, at-risk populations and all people born in regions of the world where HBV is common be screened for hepatitis B virus, and routine vaccination against hepatitis A and B; and
